Course Description (from the catalog)

Determination of economic aggregates such as total output, total employment, the price level and the rate of economic growth.

Course of Study

First we look at how economics has evolved over the past five hundred years. Then we learn some key concepts in microeconomics (price theory) and apply them to topics in macroeconomics. These include opportunity cost; comparative advantage; specialization and the gains from trade; supply and demand analysis.

We then explore such topics as measuring a nation's income; economic growth; saving, investment, and the financial system; unemployment and labor force participation; inflation and the quantity theory of money; business fluctuations; the Federal Reserve system and monetary policy; and the Federal budget and fiscal policy. Throughout the course, we apply economic analysis to understand contemporary debates over macroeconomic policy and the fate of the U.S. and world economies.

Course Goals and Learning Objectives

The goal is to promote both economic understanding and application (Econ SLO 1 & 2). Specifically, students are expected to gain familiarity with analytical methods and modelbased argument; and relationships between verbal, graphical, mathematical and statistical representations of economic ideas and analysis (Econ SLO 1.3).

Course Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of this course, students should have an understanding of the principal ideas in macroeconomics, including:

Comparative advantage (specialization and the gains from trade; globalization)

Macroeconomic measures (real versus nominal calculations; components and concept of GDP; components and concept of unemployment figures; calculation of inflation)

Macroeconomic models (circular flow; monetary and fiscal policy; the market for loanable funds & interest rate determination; the demand and supply of money & price level determination)

Required Texts/Readings

Required Text

Our textbook is Tyler Cowen and Alex Tabarrok, Modern Principles: Macroeconomics. The fourth edition (2018) is the most recent and costs more, but the buy-back price is higher. If you're short of money, buy either the third edition (2015) or the second edition (2013), but avoid the first edition (2010), which is significantly different. Or you may choose to rent the e-text of the third or fourth edition. (Please note that I customarily refer to the chapter numbers, and I'll be sure to mention where they differ between editions.)

Make sure that you are buying the Macro and not the Micro text. I've had students buy the wrong book. Of course, you would never do that!

And be aware that anyone can access the authors' website Marginal Revolution University at http://www.mruniversity.com and watch hundreds of short videos for free. Why not check it out this weekend?

Other Readings

I distribute a few handouts that I expect you to read alongside the textbook.

Course Requirements and Assignments

"Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of 45 hours over the length of the course (normally three hours per unit per week) for instruction, preparation/studying, or course related activities." More details about student workload can be found in University Policy S16-9, Course Syllabi at http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/S16-9.pdf.

There are four components to your grade: three examinations (60%), fifteen best quizzes (30%), a term paper (10%), and strictly limited extra credit.

There are two shorter exams (Monday, February 25, and Monday, March 25), which emphasize what we have covered since the previous exam and are worth 15% and 20% respectively. The final comprehensive examination (Thursday, May 16, 12:15 – 2:30 PM) is worth 25%. All three examinations consist entirely of multiple choice questions.

• There are at least 30 objective quizzes worth a total of 30 points. Each quiz is worth two points, allowing students to drop or miss at least fifteen quizzes. Quiz scores are calculated pro rata so that 10/10 on a quiz is worth two points, and 5/10 is worth one point. There are no make-ups for any quizzes.

Many quizzes, including the first four, are based on my lectures. Others are based on chapters from Cowen and Tabarrok, Modern Principles: Macroeconomics, and test your knowledge of key concepts. And two quizzes are based on videos that we watch together in class.

• I'll talk about the term paper that is worth up to 10% of your final grade on Monday, March 18, and distribute detailed instructions at that time. Your finished paper is due by 6 PM on Monday, April 15.

The SJSU Writing Center opens for the spring semester from Monday, January 28. Appointment Hours (Library, 2nd Floor): Monday-Thursday 10:00 AM - 7:00 PM; Friday 10:00 AM - 3:00 PM. Drop-in Hours (Clark Hall 126): Monday-Thursday 10:00 AM - 3:00 PM. And you can schedule appointments online at https://sjsu.mywconline.com/

Although I expect to grade on a curve, I also take into account your absolute performance (as compared with your performance relative to other students) and, if everyone does first-rate work, I'd be delighted to award everyone an A.

I am happy to help you. If you experience any difficulty in this course, please do not hesitate to come to me for help. I am available not only during office hours but also by email and phone, and I am always happy to clarify difficult concepts, resolve any lingering confusion, or otherwise assist you in making this course enjoyable and rewarding.

Classroom Protocol

Class attendance is not mandatory and will not directly affect a student's grade. However, students who miss several classes, in addition to dropping quizzes, will very likely consign themselves to doing extremely poorly on their examinations. I therefore strongly encourage students to attend fully every class.

"Common courtesy and professional behavior dictate that you notify someone when you are recording him/her. You must obtain the instructor's permission to make audio or video recordings in this class. Such permission allows the recordings to be used for your private, study purposes only. # Academic integrity

Your commitment as a student to learning is evidenced by your enrollment at San Jose State University. The University's Academic Integrity policy, located at http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/F15-7.pdf, requires you to be honest in all your academic course work. Faculty members are required to report all infractions to the office of Student Conduct and Ethical Development. The Student Conduct and Ethical Development website is available at http://www.sjsu.edu/studentconduct/.

Instances of academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Cheating on exams or plagiarism (presenting the work of another as your own, or the use of another person's ideas without giving proper credit) will result in a failing grade and sanctions by the University. For this class, all assignments are to be completed by the individual student unless otherwise specified. If you would like to include your assignment or any material you have submitted, or plan to submit for another class, please note that SJSU's Academic Policy S07-2 requires approval of instructors.

Campus Policy in Compliance with the American Disabilities Act

If you need course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability, or if you need to make special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please make an appointment with me as soon as possible, or see me during office hours. Presidential Directive 97-03 at http://www.sjsu.edu/president/docs/directives/PD_1997-03.pdf requires that students with disabilities requesting accommodations must register with the Accessible Education Center (AEC) at http://www.sjsu.edu/aec/ to establish a record of their disability.
