How—and in what limited ways—might reading and writing be made to matter in the new world that is evolving before our eyes? Is there any way to justify or explain a life spent working with—and teaching others to work with—texts? ~ Richard E. Miller, Writing at the End of the World

If we expect students to be active learners, engaged in conscious theorizing and open to being transformed, we must also approach teaching as active, committed learners and knowers. ~ Jane E. Peterson, "Valuing Teaching"

Engl 259 Course Description

In this course, we will study a variety of current approaches to studying and teaching composition. Specifically, we will examine a multiplicity of perspectives about writing that inform its instruction: what writing is, how it can be studied, how writing is taught, how it should be taught, and even whether or not it can be taught at all. Our overarching goal will be to understand composition as a complex, situated act in order to chart possibilities for developing and improving our work as teachers and scholars. The course will primarily focus on situating issues associated with teaching writing in the theoretical frameworks of rhetoric and composition studies, and we will discuss practical teaching issues, as well.

Engl 259 Course Goals

- 1) to analyze and evaluate various approaches to studying and teaching composition
- 2) to situate composition in relation to values and expectations that teachers, students,
  - a. and outside influences bring to the scene of instruction
- 3) to engage in productive discussions about teaching and studying writing
- 4) to articulate theoretically informed goals and objectives for writing classrooms
- 5) to practice modes of academic inquiry

Required Texts (please bring texts to class when we are reading and discussing them)

Gary Tate, et al., A Guide to Composition Pedagogies, 2nd ed.

Adler-Kassner and Wardle, Naming What We Know: Threshold Concepts of Writing Studies Adam Banks, Digital Griots

Additional reading (accessible on Canvas)

Procedures

This course will be demanding. The reading load is heavy, the material is often challenging, and course requirements are substantial. During most class periods, we will discuss teaching, discuss readings and responses, do group activities, and hear presentations.

Course Requirements and Grades

- 1) Teaching Portfolio (30%)
- 2) Presentation (20%)
- 3) Reading Responses (20%)
- 4) Class Observation report (20%)
- 5) Class participation (10%)

Grading Policy

All work must be submitted on time. Any unexcused late work will be graded down a full letter grade for every day it is late. If there is a reason you cannot make a deadline, contact me BEFORE THE DEADLINE. You must turn in all assignments to pass the class.

Course grades will be calculated using the following scale:

| 93% - 100% = A | 80% - 82% = B- | 67% - 69% = D+ |
|----------------|----------------|----------------|
| 90% - 92% = A- | 77% - 79% = C+ | 63% - 66% = D  |
| 87% - 89% = B+ | 73% - 76% = C  | 60% - 62% = D- |
| 83% - 86% = B  | 70% - 72% = C- | 0% - 59% = F   |

Participation

For a class like this one, much of the learning happens in class. Therefore, it is imperative that you be in class every day and participate in class activities and discussions. Class participation entails: (1) demonstrating that you've completed the readings/assignments, (2) contributing to class discussions, and (3) completing in-class assignments.

Please note: sometimes projects and class discussions will include material of a sensitive nature. In this course, students may encounter materials that differ from and perhaps challenge their understanding of reality, their ideas, and their beliefs. Students are encouraged to discuss issues that may arise from such material with the instructor.

Please ALSO note: If you have special needs or accommodations requests, see me as soon as possible. Failure to do so may result in your forfeiture of the accommodations you may deserve.

Assignments

Teaching Portfolio

The major project in this class will be a teaching portfolio. It will include: (1) a teaching philosophy, (2) a teaching curriculum vita, (3) other materials that we will define in class.

FYC Observation

During the semester, you will be required to visit an experienced writing program instructor's class and produce a short (1-2 page) report describing what you learned from that observation (e.g., a teaching approach, activity idea, classroom organization/management strategy, etc.). You will also be strongly encouraged to arrange a follow-up meeting with the instructor. Your report will be due to me at the end of October, but you will also be expected to send a copy to the instruction for his/her records.

Presentation

Each of you will choose one chapter from Tate, et al.'s A Guide to Composition Pedagogies to present to the class. Your presentation must include a one-page handout briefly outlining the chapter and its relevance to the class. You must also include citations to some possible additional sources. Your presentation should be approximately 10-15 minutes long.

Reading Responses

Members of the class are expected to provide written responses to 5 readings. Responses should not simply summarize or repeat points raised in the readings or class, but should build upon those points to help advance our discussion. You are welcome to discuss your reaction to the reading (liked or disliked, agreed or disagreed, etc., and why), an observation for how it enlightens the work of our class, or the relationship of a reading to your own thoughts about teaching.

Responses should be short (300-600 words is fine), and you will submit them on Canvas. I will evaluate them based on evidence that you have read the assigned readings and have attempted to expand upon the issues raised in a thoughtful way. I will not grade papers based on format, usage, or grammar, but I do appreciate reading error-free prose.
