For Undocumented Students: Questions and Answers About Paying for College

If you're an undocumented student, you probably have questions about college costs. Here are answers to some common questions undocumented students have about paying for college.

Do colleges offer financial aid or scholarships to undocumented students?

Yes, some do. Private colleges often have special funds available. To apply for this financial aid, you may have to fill out the CSS/Financial Aid PROFILE or the college's own forms. Check with the admission or financial aid office at each college you are interested in to find out its requirements.

Am I eligible for scholarships?

Yes, you just need to find ones that you qualify for. Start by talking to your high school counselor and checking out the Scholarship Resources page on the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund (MALDEF) website.

There are many scholarship opportunities, and some private scholarship organizations allow undocumented students to apply. There are even a few scholarships specifically meant for undocumented students. Be sure to look into local scholarships offered by community groups, such as the Kiwanis, that might be open to all students living in the local community.

Can I get federal financial aid?

No. You can't get federal financial aid unless you're a U.S. citizen or eligible noncitizen. This means you should not fill out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

Can I get a Pell Grant?

No. Pell Grants are a type of federal financial aid.

Can I get financial aid from my state?

It depends on where you live. Some states offer financial aid to undocumented students and some don't. The rules often change, so be sure to get the latest information. The Repository of Resources for Undocumented Students (.pdf/1MB) has information about policies in several states.

Do I pay the in-state or out-of-state rate at a public college in my home state?

It depends on where you live. Some public colleges may offer you in-state tuition rates based on proof of residency in the state. Others may treat you as an out-of-state or international student and require you to pay the higher rate.

How else can I cut down on costs?

You may be able to save money on tuition by earning college credit before starting college. Check with the colleges you're considering to see if they award credit for qualifying scores on AP® or CLEP® exams or for successfully completing International Baccalaureate (IB) courses and earning qualifying scores on IB exams. Find out more about the AP Program and CLEP.

Where else can I find information about paying for college?

Here are some websites and downloads with helpful information:

Repository of Resources for Undocumented Students (.pdf/1MB)

Resources for Undocumented Students from the Minnesota Office of Higher Education

MALDEF's Scholarship Resources page

DreamActivist's DACA Scholarship page

Paying for College on ab540.com

Choose Your Future from Chicago Public Schools

OTHER TOPICS IN GET STARTED

Know Yourself

Outside the Classroom

Inside the Classroom

Building a Support Network

For Parents

For Veterans

Start a college search: Which location are you interested in?

Select region or state

Find colleges

EXPERT Q&A

Can undocumented students get financial aid?

Chio Flores, Director, Office of Financial Aid & Scholarships, Washington State University

RELATED RESOURCES

Repository of Resources for Undocumented Students

Students Speak: Undocumented and Applying to College

6 Things Undocumented Students Need to Know About College

Learn About the AP Program

How to Apply for a Scholarship

Para Los Padres

9/17/14 6:46 AM

Recommended

STUDENT STORY

It wasn't a public thing that I was undocumented

Diana, college senior

STUDENTS SPEAK: UNDOCUMENTED AND APPLYING TO COLLEGE

Hear from undocumented students in the U.S. who overcame challenges to go to college. Find out how they did it and who helped them along the way.

Read article

SCHOLARS https://shafture.collegeboard.org/collegePlan/188704879AC0... HERE

Scholarships provide money for college that you don't need to repay. And they're not just for academic superstars. Learn how you may be eligible for scholarships.

Go

2 of 2 9/17/14 6:46 AM